

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM H. TAFT,
of Ohio.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
JAMES S. SHERMAN, of New York.

FOR CONGRESS,
Hon. JOSEPH B. BENNETT.

LEAF year is closing in and the crop of affinities is unusually large.

THE Ohio is often called "La Belle Riviere," but at present writing she is a mighty low down thing.

UNCLE JOE CANNON probably won't give a dam whether or not navigation is suspended on the Ohio river.

WHAT changes take place on the battlefield of politics. Who would have said six months ago that BILL BRADLEY would stump Kentucky for BILL TAFT?

ALREADY young THEODORE ROOSEVELT has found that a life of hard work has its compensations. In the office with him are ten pretty girls.

THE Eastern and the Western States are solid for Judge TAFT. "If" there are any doubtful Republican States they are in the Central and Middle West. With Illinois and Indiana in the Taft column, what chance has BRYAN to defeat TAFT?

THE retail price of the Wright flying machine is $4,000. We thought they would come high.

HOWARD GOULD, in his divorce suit, declares his wife got drunk continually and one day she wanted to whip her hostess. Mrs. GOULD gets back at HOWARD by saying he winked at actresses on the stage. They both have evidently been enjoying themselves.

TO HEAR Congressman JOE RHINOCK, who has made a fortune in Standard Oil and race-track combines, and whose brother has been retired on a pension by the Standard Oil Company, talking about the Tobacco Trust and appealing to the down-trodden farmers of the Sixth District to stand with him in his war on unholy combinations of capital make men and gods weep.—Lexington Leader.

HERE's how the big railways "cut down expenses" to get even with the efforts of the Government to force the big corporations to obey the law: In June, 1907, there were over 50,000 employes in the service of the Southern Railway, and in June, 1908, there had been a reduction in the force of 12,077 employes, or approximately 25%, which represented a salary pay-roll of between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 annually. Traffic Manager GREEN admitted before the Interstate Commerce Commission that this action was "cruel methods." Railroad men ought to see and know that the railway companies are simply getting back at ROOSEVELT when one corporation discharges 12,000 men at one swipe.

"I will," cried a voice from the audience.

PROPHETIC WORDS.

Statement of Lawton Like an Accusation From the Grave.

Among the many gallant American soldiers whose lives were sacrificed in the difficult task of suppressing the Filipino insurrection none was more beloved either by his brother officers or the men in the ranks than General Henry W. Lawton. He realized the ideal American soldier as completely as any of his contemporaries, and his record in the war for the Union, in various Indian campaigns, in Cuba during the Spanish war and in trying work which called him to the Philippines constitutes a lustrous chapter in the annals of American valor. No braver officer ever wore his country's uniform. No gentler, more considerate commander ever led his troops into battle. No more chivalric leader ever gave up his life in defense of his country's flag.

General Lawton was killed in battle with insurgents in the island of Luzon in 1900 while fighting at the head of his troops. A short time before the tragic close of his career he had written to a friend in the United States a letter, in which he said:

"If I am shot by a Filipino bullet it might as well come from one of my own men, because I know from observation, confirmed by captured prisoners, that the continuance of fighting is chiefly due to reports that are sent out from America."

The words of Lawton, fighting a treacherous foe in a tropical country, were meant as a protest against the unpatriotic "anti-imperialist" agitators here in the United States, where expressions of sympathy for the insurrection gave constant aid and comfort to the enemy. Army officers of high character and rugged experience in the Philippines have frequently expressed the opinion that the insurrection would not have lasted ninety days had it not been for the support, moral and otherwise, which its leaders received from their sympathizers in America.

Chief among those sympathizers, the insistent and most reckless of all, was William Jennings Bryan, and against him the prophetic words of the lamented Lawton stand like an accusation from the grave. For his unpatriotic course during the Filipino insurrection Mr. Bryan lacked even the shadow of an excuse. He had entered the military service during the Spanish war as a volunteer officer, and he knew that the war and the insurrection in the islands could be concluded only with the unqualified recognition of American authority wherever it was asserted. But in spite of that he encouraged the Filipino to continue in armed resistance, and his reckless expressions undoubtedly helped to prolong a desperate and costly struggle which he knew in his heart could never end except in the way it was ended. Mr. Bryan's conduct throughout that conflict, which cost so much alike to the United States and to the deluded Filipinos themselves, amounted to moral treason, and it will never be forgiven by the survivors of those gallant men from whom it exacted the last full measure of sacrifice in devotion to duty.

The words of Lawton will confound Mr. Bryan every time he opens his mouth to speak on the Philippines in the present campaign. He cannot escape them. They indict him for giving aid and comfort to the armed enemies of American authority and they brand him as a man who openly encouraged a desperate uprising against the flag in defense of which Lawton died.

BRYAN COULD HARM.

Danger of Placing Nebraskan in White House.

EVEN WITH SENATE OPPOSED.

Administration and Enforcement of Laws Would Be in His Hands—The Treasury Would Be Under His Thumb—National Banks Would Be at His Mercy.

Nobody with brains enough to get in out of a blizzard can have patience with the argument so complacently put forth by some of the Bryanites who want to humbug others into believing what they don't believe themselves—that Bryan can do no harm should be elected. The usual way of putting it is that there will be a Republican senate and probably a Republican house and that Bryan's hands will be tied even if his tongue continues to wag—certainly a poor reason for electing a president even were it true.

But it is not true. A grammar school boy who has studied the constitution of the United States knows that. Of course Bryan as president in face of a sane congress could not pass laws. But the whole administration of national laws, including their enforcement, which is at least as important as passing them, would be in his hands. He would have the treasury under his thumb; the national banks would be at the mercy of a comptroller of the currency appointed by him; the foreign policy of the government would be directed by him, and ambassadors, ministers and consuls would be named by him. The army and navy would be under his command. Collectors, postmasters and other officials of the civil service would be nominated by him. While he could not establish "a tariff for revenue only," he could make things much smoother and easier for the class that come back from European trips loaded with all sorts of luxuries purchased abroad to the detriment of American labor.

Then he could smash any bank that might offend him by not going into his compulsory guarantee scheme. Just as his campaign treasurer, Governor Haskell, smashed the International Bank of Commerce, Okla., to make a demonstration of the guarantee law for the Democratic Denver convention.

Oh, yes, Bryan could do harm—so much harm that it might take the country many long years to recover from the damage done by four years of Bryan in the White House.

But Bryan will do no harm because he will not have the opportunity. Because the American people are going to elect as their president William H. Taft, the candidate of the Republican party, the impartial judge, the constructive statesman, the man of whom McKinley said, "He is the broadest and most unselfishly brave man I know and will carry the constitution of the United States in his very blood." Taft's election will be an assurance that the voters of the United States are determined to have in the White House one whose presence there will be in itself a pledge of good government, of efficient and equitable administration of the laws, of intellectual and educational advancement and of progress and prosperity in the material affairs of the republic.

THE BRYAN PARROT.

The Same Feathered Nuisance That Screamed in 1896.

In 1908, as in 1900 and 1896, the dominant voice in the Bryan campaign is the voice of the parrot. It is just as shrill, just as insistent and just as meaningless as it was twelve years ago and is bound to become quite as wearisome to the public.

In 1896 the sleek, green parrot of Bryanism teetered to and fro upon his comfortable swing and screeched "Free silver! Free silver!" That was the only phrase the bird could utter, and its dismal iteration so exasperated the people that they grabbed the noisy parrot from his perch and cast him into the garbage heap.

But the plumed nuisance survived and appeared in the campaign of 1900 with a brand new scream. This time it was "Imperialism! Imperialism!" To the unthinking that alarmist outcry was momentarily terrifying, suggesting thrones and tyrants bent on oppressing the people. But it never scared the sane people themselves even for a moment. They knew it was the same old parrot singing the same old tune with merely a change of words. To every challenge to a discussion of real political issues the parrot made but one reply—"Imperialism!"—and again the feathered pest was torn from his perch and tossed into the junk pile by the public whose patience he had exhausted.

With his inability either to charm or frighten, so rudely demonstrated in two successive trials, an ordinary parrot would have dedicated himself to a future of silent meditation on the follies of talking too much. But the Bryan parrot is an extraordinary parrot, not an ordinary one, and the campaign of 1908 finds him perched aloft again with another screech wherewith to frighten the timid and amuse the thoughtful. His cry this year—and its accents show that it has been rehearsed with rare patience—is, "Shall the people rule?" It fits the parrot's voice to perfection, and, though it is as empty as his own head, he accompanies it with an uprolling of his eyes that might scare people if they could forget for a moment that it is only a parrot screech, after all.

The voice of the Bryan parrot is unchanged. It is as rasping, monotonous and as lacking in the note of sincerity as it was twelve years ago. The senseless shriek of "Free silver!" could not mislead the people in 1896. The alarmist scream of "Imperialism!" never disturbed their composure for a single moment in 1900. And the shrill, insulting screech, "Shall the people rule?" can have no other result than to provoke their angry contempt in 1908.

Parrot politics will not do this year. Serious questions are before the people for discussion and settlement. Public attention cannot be drawn away from them either by the witless chatter of parrots or the theatrical tricks of demagogues. This is no more a parrot year than was 1900 or 1896.

Mr. Gompers betrays distinct signs of irritation because nobody thinks it worth while to get out an injunction against his speaking his mind to the fullest extent. He will awaken in November to the fact that there is a great gift in his partisan mind and the strictly economic purposes of labor unions.

The Bryan proposition that conservative banks should pay for the failures of speculative banks will not appeal to the thrifty depositor.

The strenuous tour of Mr. Bryan through the Middle West will be continued, and Mr. Taft likewise has an itinerary mapped out for the week that will keep him exceedingly busy.

It has been definitely decided that Taft will close his campaign on the night of November 2d at Youngstown, Ohio. The National campaign of the party was opened at that place, with Governor Hughes as the principal speaker.

These are the school days for the youth of the republic. All the elders are conning their political text books also, but their study is in the nature of reviewing the chapter about Bryan, upon which two examinations have been passed triumphantly.

In the case of Bryan it is a question not of what he would do for the people, but of what he would do to the people.

Bryan has tried to bury his dead issues, but their ghosts haunt him still even if they are not live issues.

Mr. Taft is a good example of the genuine American workingman. He is a believer in organized labor, but not in restriction of output or violence.

David B. Hill pleads that his health will not permit him to campaign for Bryan. If Mr. Hill is still a Democrat, he should know that the time for a Democrat to be sick is the day after the election.

Candidate Taft on the stump will make speeches that Candidate Bryan can neither make, dodge nor answer.

Mr. Taft's arguments are based upon achievements; Mr. Bryan's arguments rest upon promises, most of which he now ignores as proved fallacies, such as the fifty cent dollar and public ownership.

The disaffected negro who says he has paid his debt to the Republican party should ask himself what he owes to the Democratic party.

It is a paradox in politics, but it is nevertheless true, that the party in power is not on the defensive in this campaign. The Republican record and candidates need no defense. The Democrats are the apologists this year.

Even while Mr. Taft is campaigning the impetus he gave the work on the Panama canal goes steadily on.

The puzzle over the ten lost tribes is as nothing compared with the hiding place of Bryan's lost issues.

Bryan claims to be at once the father and the heir of the Roosevelt policies. His brother Democrat, Judge Parker, denounces Rooseveltism. The family seems a little jarred.

Mr. Bryan says he is not going to worry about the negro vote. He will have enough worry over the Democratic vote.

Candidate Kern says that he is the left wing of the Bryan army. The record shows that both wings of the Bryan army are left.

Mr. Bryan declares that his third nomination was due to the growth of the principles he championed in his former campaigns. The statement is a little amusing in view of the fact that every principle he championed in 1896 and in 1900 is as dead as the akond of Swat.

County Clerk Wood informs THE PUBLIC LEDGER that Mason county, the City of Maysville and the town of Dover will receive a handsome little sum in back taxes on the franchise of the Adams Express Company from 1897 to 1907—ten years.

The Company will pay on about $100,000 valuation and the entire taxes due will amount to about $800.

The matter of paying the current year's tax will be settled later, as Judge Cochran of the Federal Court has granted the Company an injunction to prevent collection of 1908 taxes until a final Court hearing is given.

MIDNIGHT JAMBOREE

Beyond Hord's Hill Early Sunday Morning—Henry Stewart Had His Head Cracked

There was something doing just over Hord's Hill about 1 o'clock Sunday morning and in the mixup Henry Stewart, an old colored man who keeps a small store in that celebrated "scrub-urb," had his face and forehead laid open by unknown parties with a bludgeon or some other kind of club.

It appears that after midnight some time Henry was called from his slumbers to get the sealskin cloaks and auto wraps belonging to Miss Lizzie Moore and Miss Fanny Washington, two dusky belles of the vicinity, and when Mister Stewart opened the door of his domicile some one swiped him across the head and face with a railroad tie or a 90-pound to the yard steel rail or some other heavy substance. Anyhow, Storekeeper Stewart was knocked out and all parties skiddooed. Stewart bled like a hog and his front door looked like the entrance to a young slaughter house.

Not till 7 o'clock Sunday morning did Officer Senteney learn of the occurrence, and, in company with Constable Chisholm, he found affairs as above stated. Stewart was unconscious for several hours and was without medical treatment, still he is coming around all right.

A warrant was issued by Squire Boyer for Fred Payne, colored, who is suspected of, having hit Stewart.

Payne is a brother of the Negro Payne killed a few days ago in a Washington crap game.

The facts will no doubt all come out in the Judicial laundry before his Honor, Squire Boyer.

Here is one case of it: J. M. Lloyd, farmer, Rural Free Delivery, No. 5, Maysville, Ky., says:

"I am only too pleased to tell of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills and hope that it may be the means of benefiting other sufferers of kidney troubles. About five years ago my kidneys suddenly became disordered and for several months I was bothered by constant dull pains across my back and through the loins. When I stooped or lifted, sharp twinges shot through my body and caused me the most intense suffering. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I purchased a box at J. J. Wood & Son's Drugstore and began using them. The contents of this box effected a complete cure and since then I have not had a touch of backache or any other trouble arising from inactive kidneys."

Two More Counties Added to the List and the End is Not Yet

ASHTABULA, O., October 3d.—Ashtabula county voted dry by a majority of 2,136.

This is the largest county geographically in the State. Eighty-seven saloons, all in Geneva, Ashtabula and Conneaut, will be abolished by the result of today's election.

Ashtabula City, with a population of 18,000, is said to be the largest city yet to vote dry in the State. Conneaut has a population of nearly 8,000.

Ashtabula City had a dry majority of 21, Conneaut 42.

Tonight the Church bells are ringing in Ashtabula in celebration of the dry victory.

THEATRIUM

A great show tonight; new people, new acts, new songs, everything changed. Jimmy Newell in a new black face singing and talking act, and that greatest of comedy sketch teams Billie Nixon and Miss Minnie Moran in a new singing, dancing and talking act. The stock company in that funny farce "Skiddoo." Two great pictures tonight. First show 7:30. Admission 10c. Remember 10c pays for everything at this little amusement palace.

A DOCTOR'S PROBLEM

The world demands of us success. Success in the world's sense means money.

To get money things must come to a business level, which gives to every patient a money value only. This makes the doctor a mercenary, which character is not wholly or largely humane at middest. When we, as physicians, cease to be humane, we cease to be anything of real value. The mere money-getter never yet filled the measure of the physician, taken at his best.

"Under which King, Benzonio?" To accurately adjust the focus upon the glittering pile, the auricular drum meanwhile responsive to the wail of penury is the problem! He is a rare man who can solve it, aiming to serve God, with Mammon the real master.
